2 Introduction

2.1 Birth of Idea

The idea for Willcoin was born from a personal experience. The father of one of our team members had passed and designated that his assets be transferred to his children. The process should have been a simple one, however due to some ambiguous wording in some parts of his Will, it instead turned into a tedious and expensive seven-month process. The family had to pay expensive court, attorney, bond, business valuation, and other miscellaneous fees. Instead of grieving the passing of their father, the family had to waste time and money in court. We thought this wasn't right so we made Willcoin allowing individuals and their families to find peace knowing that an individual's Will do exactly as they intended.
